

Amazon incurred $15 billion in COVID-19-related costs to prioritize employee health

Amazon has incurred
$15 billion

in COVID-19-related costs to keep employees safe and get products to customers during the pandemic.

Amazon has offered
$3.2 billion

in bonuses and incentives to help employees around the world through the ongoing COVID-19 pandemic.

Throughout the pandemic,
Amazon invested more than $464 million

for free COVID-19 testing of front-line employees.

Amazon offers up to $80

to front-line employees who receive the vaccine and provides $100

new hire bonuses for fully vaccinated front-line U.S. employees.

When vaccines rolled out,
Amazon invested more than $50 million

to host 1,800 on-site vaccination events for employees and the community.